money inside their clothes. One black-bearded individual, who did not lose his presence of mind, grabbed his valise, and with a muttered remark about defending himself with a secreted revolver, retreated to the other end of the oar waiting till the robbers might begin operations on him.

Fortunately it was all over in a few minutesr J. F. Adams, the conductor of the train, upon getting wind of what was going on, made for the baggage oar where there were firearms. He was unable to reach it, however, while in motion owing to there being no door in the rear of the second-class coach, and he accordingly stopped the train. Upon this the robbers hurriedly quit their pillaging and took to the woods, for by this time the passengers in the other coaches were bestirring themselves and would no doubt have made it hot for the highwaymen had they been given an opportunity. Only a small amount of money was secured from

"THE ROBBERS really didn't have much time to go through the passengers on the car. I should say they were on board not over eight minutes, and then the train stopped and they left in a hurry. The only man of the three at whose face I got a good look wore a very thin beard on his chin. They were all white, and none of them wore masks."

Had the attack on the train been an organized one the booty secured would doubtless have repaid the highwaymen for the great risk they ran. As it was, no attempt to rob the express or mail was made, or to enter more than one coach, although there were

ON THE TRAIL.

A Posse in Pursuit of the Diaz (Ark.) By Telegraph to the Post-Disparch.

NEWPORT, Ark., October 29.—Full particu-lars of the train robbery which took place or the Iron Mountain Railroad at Diaz, two miles north of here, were secured by your correspondent. Passenger train No. 759 is due at Newport at 6:20 o'clock p. m. The train came in and left on time. Just north of town the in and left on time. Just north of town the Iron Mountain Railroad crosses the White and Black Elver road and trains are required to come to a full stop here. Three men boarded the rear end of the sleeper here and as soon as the train was under full headway entered the smoking apartment of the sleeper and at once ordered the occupants, three in number, to hold up their hands. The request was speedily compiled with. Then the robbers helped themselves to what they could find in the way of money. Fifty-five dollars were obtained, when doubtless they became alarmed at the whistle of the engine for Diaz, which is a coaling station where all trains stop for coal. They jumped off the train while in motion, as the footprints were plainly visible, and then started back in the direction of Newport, where it is presumed they boarded another train. Officers with a posse are now out, and it is-believed they have st.uck the right trail.

Suspects Arrested.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., October 29.—Early this norning three men were arrested at the Union Depot on the arrival of the south-bound train on the Iron Mountain Railroad suspected of participating in the robbery of the north-bound passenger train, but were subsequently discharged.

NEW YORK, October 39.—Henry Carlton, the murderer of Officer James Brennan, was arraigned before the Coroner. He was heavily handouffed and wore a defiant air. By the side of the casket was a long stick covered with a yellow cloth bearing cabalistic characters. This was to serve as a ladder upon which the dead General is to mount to the skies. The lid of the codin was frequently removed to permit friends to gaze on the features of the deceased. The face of Gen. Doo was composed and the body was dressed in the ordinary garments worn by him in life. Oblong pieces of card board bearing hieroglyphics were scattered about the dead man's head and shoulders. There were also playing cards there, that the departed might pass away the time pleasantly on his journey heavenward. Two feet apart from each other and in front of the casket were three pine tables. On the first were dishes of canned fruits and piles of oranges. The second table almost groaned under the weight of a roasted pig. On either side of the porker were pillows of chrysanthemuns and peonies, one of which bore the words "hiy cousin at rest." On the third and his were several bowls of rice in which stood burning joss-sticks and several ordinary wax candles. Chop sticks and diminutive teacups were laid on either sides of the table. All that the first and second tables contained will be placed on the grave of Gen. Doo that he may not want food should he awake.

These theres is the side of the room and soon began chanting a weird song. Suddenly the band started the Dead March from Saul, and continued playing for ten minutes. Meanwhile additional joss sticks were placed in the rice bowls, and the Chinamen bowed low and sang a dirge. The music attracted great crowds and Mott street, for a considerable distance, was lined with people. Every window in the neighborhood was open and heads were thrust from them. When the "Melican" music had cased a chinese band played a funeral march, which was almost deafening. This was continued with frequent interruptions to allow the chief mourners time to m

To-day was femarkably quiet in real estate circies. There appeared to be nothing like a rush in any of the offices. It was noticeable that the derical force and the collectors, connected with the various agencies were at their desks making out rent receipts, or sitting around like their employers doing little or nothing more than talk politics. Three or four of the agents were working on sales of from $3,000 to $10,000 each, and if there are negotiations pending for the sale of larger properties, the facts are being kept very close. A little later in the week the market is apt to brighten up some, as it invariably does, but no great amount of business during the name two weeks is anticipated.

New York, October 22.—Another local political sensation was started this afternoon by the Evening Sun. By a State law all public offices are ordered closed after 18 o'clock noon on Saturday. Notwithstanding this law the registration offices were kept open last Saturday all day and over 33,000 persons registered. As it is impossible to separate those who registered before noon from those that registered later, the Sun states that the entire list may have to be thrown out. The Sun interviewed fitty of the leading lawyers in the city, and states that they all held that a registration office is a "public office" and within the scope of the Saturday half heliday law.

An Express Bailroad Scheme.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., October 29 .- The scheme the United States Express Co. to get through route for its business to New York by building a branch railroad from Gloucester building a branch railroad from Gloucester City to Atco, to connect with the New Jersey Southern Road, has apparently remained quiescent the past week or so, notwithstanding the action of the Gloucester City Council in granting a right-of-way for the new line. The reason for this is that negotiations are pending with the Reading Railroad for the purchase of its Camden, Gloucester & Mount Ephraim Branch, and if they terminate successfully, the idea of establishing the terminus of the line at Gloucester will be abandoned. The same surveyors who were first sent to run a line for the new route through Gloucester, have since been sent to stake off a line from the Mount Ephraim terminus of the Reading's branch. Developments in the new movement are expected this week.

Among the prominent labor men who called to learn what was being done at Sixth and Market streets was Mr. George M. Jackson, who said he had some important letters, which he did not propose to make public to-day as he did not wish to do anything to interfere with the plans of the so-called Executive Committee, aithough he did not profess to know what those plans were. The committee as composed above met at 10 o'clock this morning, and shortly after noon adjourned until 3 p. m. The object of the meeting was to receive from Mr. W. H. Blake a reply to the committee's letter tendering him the nomination for Governor to replace the name of Ahira Manring, who was nominated by the convention but removed for refusing to make an active canvass and to contribute $2,000 to the committee tund. Mr. Manring claims that he is still the candidate of the party and that he will make the race notwithstanding the action of the Executive Committee in tendering the place to Mr. Blake.

After the meeting adjourned Mr. Gladhill was asked what had been done. He said the time had been taken up in hearing reports and was not inclined to discuss the meeting further.

Mr. Nolan was seen and said the time was and was not inclined to discuss the meeting further.

Mr. Nolan was seen and said the time was consumed in "d—g that fellow Manring," and that the recess had been taken to eat.

Mr. W. H. Biake was asked if he had given to the committee his answer to their notification of his nomination for Governor. He said he had not., "Do you intend to make the race as the Union Labor nominee for Governor, or to decline the nomination?"

"That is a leading question. I have written a letter and have been trying for several days to got the committee together to read it to why did you not present it this molaring?"

"The committee didn't ask for it."

"If the committee does not ask, do you intend to leave the party without a candidate?"

"Oh, I'll present my letter."

"Do you propose to recommend the increment of the Republican nominee by the Union Labor Committee?"

"No, I don't propose to recommend the endorsement of anyone. I am not prepared to any whether I will accept the nomination for Sovernor or not."

Mr. Blake was asked if he could give an explanation for the failure of the committee to Governor or not."

Mr. Blake was asked if he could give an explanation for the failure of the committee to dispose at once of the nomination which has been pending six days. He said he had been trying to get the committee together in order that he might present his letter. This leaves the party in a deplorable condition within a week of the election. All sorts of charges of boodle and seil out are made in the rank and file of the party.

Letters were received to day from the interior of the State asking that tickets be sent with Union Labor electoral nominations headed with the name of D. R. Francis for Governor. Shortly after the adjournment of the Executive Committee the cause was ascertained. A telegram was received from North Springfield, stating that the full committee was in session and was preparing an address. denouncing the action of the Executive Committee for its action in regard to Mr. Manring, the nomines of the Sedalia convention. It would naturally be desirable for Messrs. Blake, Glachill and Noisa to know the action of the committee at Springfield before promulgating a letter from this end of the line or taking any definite action.

TREACHERY SUSPECTED.

Rohan's Managers Object to Deals Between Democrats and Pohlman.

Acting Mayor Allen met Phil Roban, the Democratic candidate for Sheriff, and Tom Wand at Broadway and Market street. Mr. Allen approaching the candidate twittingly said. "I want to buy the Roban Guards." "They are not to be bought," said Candidate Rohan, "but if you want to buy something, here's Tom Wand. He's for sale."
Wand had the enjoyment of a big empty-barrel langh all to himself as the two parted without explanations. Whether the suspicion extends to Rohan himself does not appear beyond what conclusion may be drawn from the exchange of compilments related above.
Rohan's friends in the North End suspect treachery on the part of some Democrats. Wand was elected to the House of Delegates by a majority of 99 in a ward having a Republican majority of 90. This result was reached through the friendliness of John H. Pohlman, the candidate against Rohan. Favors have, however, been more recently intercounged. After Rugh J. Brady received the Democratic nomination in the Thirty-third Senatorial District he became Interested in splitting the opposition by having both a Union Labor and a Republican candidate against him. An indorsement of the Labor party's candidate by the Republicans was what Brady was interested in defeating. Through the influence of Pohlman Chas. T. Busche was given the Republican nomination. "They are not to be bought," said Candidate These occurences have made Rohan's man-agers suspicious of the fidelity of his Six-teenth Ward friends.

Mr. Frank P. Blair, formerly of this city but now a resident of Kansas City, is here on a short visit. To a POST-DISPATCH reporter short visit. To a Post-Disparch reporter Mr. Blair said this morning: "I have been traveling and making Democratic speeches in the State of Kansas and it is my honest opision that it will swing around for Cleveland this time. John.a. Martin, the Democratic candidate for Governor, is making a splendid campaign. He is talking free trade from one end of the State to the other. In his valise he carries an imported coat, a miniature plow and a flask of whisky. When he gets on the stump, Martin points to the coat: 'Eighty-five cents duty on that,' says he: '45 cents on the plow; but here,'—raising aloft the bottle—'here we have free whisky, thank God!' Kansans are rather sore on the liquor question, and John catches the drowd every time.'' vention at Stolle's Hall on Saturday night there was some prospect for awhile of Anderson Gray of the Sixth Ward and Ed Clifton coming together. Gray was inclined to comment severely on the party methods during the present campaign. He said that he had joined the party to remain in it and drive the boodlers out; not to be driven out by the boodlers. This speech followed Olifton's defense of the fusion policy. There has been some feeling between Gray and Clifton for several months. At the Clity Convention at Central Turner Hall Moretimer Shaw made a speech concluding with resolutions of sympathy for Clifton, who was referred to as "a disinterested worker now lying on a bed of pain." On the vote on the resolution one man voted no, and when Shaw demanded to see the face of the voter, Gray jumped to his feet in defense of the voter, showing considerable feeling. Clifton's defense of the fusion policy was, as he said, his first speech since his illness. His sentiments evidently did not please the Sixth Ward delegate.

Hatch's District Safe.

Committeeman Carroll and Messrs tumping Schuyler, Putnam, Macon, Scotlan and Knox Counties, each making two speeches a day, reported at the State headquarters this morning. They predict a gain of from 2 per cent to 5 per cent for the Republicans, and from 15 to 20 per cent for the Democrats over the vote of 1884. At Mendota Mr. Martin held a joint debate with Col. H. C. Brock, the Republican candidate for Congress against Mr. Hatch, State Committeeman Carroll reports that his district is all in good shape, except Scotland County, to which particular attention is now being paid.

Ed Clifton, who told the Eighth District Union Labor Convention several things which he claimed he was in a position to know among other things said that if Mayor Francis among other things said that if Mayor Francis was elected Governor that Ed Butler would be the next Recorder of Voters. He did not explain how he was in a position to know this, but was none the less positive in making the statement. Clitton also gave the assurance, again claiming his oracular rights by reason of the privileges of his position, that John H. Pohlman's name would not appear on the tleket for the office of Sheriff. President Willliam Schillig of the Trades and Labor Union rather ironically confirmed this latter prediction.

Coghlan's Name Will Be Taken Off. The City Committee of the Union Labor resignation of Phil Coghlan, the Congres nominee in the Eighth District. It is claimed nominee in the Eighth District. It is claimed that in the absence of a Congressional Committee action on the resignation must be taken by the City Committee before Mr. R. C. Langsdon, the second choice of the convention, can be put upon the ticket. A committee will be appointed to wait on Coghlan and request his resignation. If this is not furnished his name will be stricken from the ticket and the new Congressional Committee will be notified to proceed with the nomination of a new candidate.

Mr. W.S.Reife, ex-Insurance Commission who was nominated for the House of Repre sentatives by the Democrats of the Second District, has decided to make the race. On las Friday he forwarded to the City Central Committee a letter withdrawing his name from the ticket, but on Saturday a friend, acting for the Legislative nominee, withdrew the letter of declination and no change will be made on the ticket. Pressure of private business was the reason arged by the nominee in his letter withdrawing his name.

presenting a most impressive and beautiful spectacle. It formed about half way between Point Clear and Battle's Wharf and proceeded lowly toward the shore, roaring at first with a very loud noise. It struck Battle's Wharf near the shore end and cut it off as neatly as if it had been sawed off. The spout sucked up a great lot of splintered wood and went dashing inland, carrying with it a mass of whirling debris, in the midst of which hundreds of fish were mingled. The waterspout proceeded up the lane, tore off the corner of a barn, and then fell to the ground with a loud noise, depositing the mass of broken wood and fish. Capt. L. H. Kennerly gives a graphic account of the phenomenon. He says that he watched the waterspout from beginning to the end. There was a very heavy black cloud in the sky off the point, and all the clouds in the neighborhood were seen moving toward the center of the black cloud. He knew then that a waterspout was forming, and called attention to the atmospheric disturbance. Fresently the water, of the bay, about one hundred yards off the end of the long wharf, began to boil and whirl around with a loud noise. This whirlpool was directly beneath the black cloud. The black cloud then formed in funnel-shape and let down a point, revolving in a direction contrary to the whirlpool below. Soon the two bodies of water joined in forming a column about fifty feet in diameter in the middle and reaching up about a mile in the air. As soon as the junction was formed the greater part of the rushing waters ceased. The column about fifty feet in diameter in the middle and reaching up about a mile in the air. The Drummer Tax Unconstitutional-Aque Washington, D. C., October 29.-In an opin on rendered by Justice Bradley in the drum Texas, the Supreme Court of the United States to-day declared unconstitutional all State laws imposing a license tax on commercial travelers not residents of the State imposing the tax Asher was a resident of New Orleans, and tax. Asher contested the constitutionality of this statute, taking the ground that it was repugnant to the clause of the Constitution giving Congress the exclusive right to regulate interstate commerce. The State Court decided against him. Asher appealed the case to the Supreme Court, which to day gave a decision in his favor. The Court, in its opinion, says that it sees no difference between this case and the Robbins (Tennessee) case, in which the State law was held to be unconstitutional. As to the contention of the authorities of Texas that the decision of the Supreme Court in the Robbins case was in conflict with prior decisions of the court, Justice Bradley very dryly says that even were this true, the court has always supposed that a later decision has the effect of over-ruing a prior decision with which it may not be in harmony. The Court then says: "We do not propose to enter into a renewed discussion of the matter at this time."

A quorum of the joint Congressional Committee to investigate the Washington aqueduct scandal assembled at 12 o'clock today. There were present Senator Edmonds and Representatives Ryan, Clemets and Medillin, Senator Edmunds was elected Chairman and a clerk and a stenographer were appointed. Two hours were spent in reviewing the papers in the case and planning the work in hand. Three engineers were selected to aid the committee as experts, of whom only one, Joseph M. Wilson of Philadelphia has as yet been accepted. The committee adjourned till November 14, subject, however, to an earlier call by the chairman.

WASHINGTON, D. C., October 29,-Eugene empie, Governor of Washington Territory, semple, Governor of Washington Territory, in his annual report estimates the population of the Territory at 167,982, an increase of about 24.000 during the year. The taxable property of the Territory is given at 484.621, 183, which is a gain of 305,000,000 in the last ten years, and a large increase over last year. The financial condition of the Territory is said to be healthy and prosperous. Public lands have been entered during the year as follows: Original homestead entries, 321,740 acres; timber culture entries, 80,284; cash entries, 123,803 acres; pre-emption filings, 354,643 acres; desert land, 4,000 acres. During the year the Northern Pacific Railroad sold 268,700 acres. Coal mining, the report anys, is in a prosperous condition, the mines having produced 1,123,801 tons, as against 525,705 during 1887. Gold and silver mining is also in a prosperous condition, many of the mines producing large quantities of high grade ores. The salmon pack for the year was 560,820 cases, a slight increase over last year. Neither the canneries nor the fishermen, the report says, have maps anything on the year's work. The Governor urges the admission of the Territory into the Union; recommends the allotment of lends in severalty to all Indians, and liberal appropriations for surveys of the public lands.

in 1854. Her husband was saway in Mexico at the time commanding the French troops who ware engaged in the hopeless task of maintaining the ill-fated Maximilian on his tottering throne. Sad to relate, Mme. ia Marechale, who was considerably younger than her soldier husband who had fought his way up from the lowest ranks of the army to the highest, was as frail as she was fair, and took advantage of her spouse's absence to misconduct herself in the most flagrant manner. Her escapades brought her into contact with men of the type of the notorious Pranzini, and one morning in the summer of 1864 her dead body was discovered in a house of questionable repute in one of the suburbs of Paris. The head was almost severed from the trusk by a gash across the throat and the corpse had been subjected to a terrible mutilations, while the aspect of the room left no doubt as to the orgies which had preceded the crime. Every effort was made by the Government to keep the matter from becoming public, but to no effect, for the news soon leaked out, and in an incredibly short time the newspapers were filled with the most revolting details about the whole affair.

Bazaine was passionately attached to his lovely wife, and his devotion to her and blind confidence in her virtue were well known as the Tulleries. Both on public and personal grounds Napoleon was determined that, at all costs, the news should be gently broken to Bazaine appeared aimost broken-hearted and utterly crushed by the news of his wife's death. But on the following day he happened to light on a Paris paper which had found its way into Mexico via the United States, and the first thing which met his eyes was the heading of a paragraph entitled, "Assassinat de la Marechale Bazaine." Jarbeau has a way of doing things which belongs exclusively to herself. She doesn't do the main way. When she sings she sings all over, when she dances she dances from the top of her head to the soles of her feet; and when she kicks—well, the stage has to be cleared and reefs have to be taken in the borders. It is this whole souled dash and abandon which fills her work that makes her so effective. Sometimes her abandon is flush to the border of the line, but is magnetic and wins her andiences. She was received with high favor in "Starlight" at the Grand last night, and "Piquet," her imitation of Theo, her tarantulia and castanet dances and her topical song were entusiastically applauded. Frazer and Maedes who are credited with the authorship of "Starlight" did as little as possible for Jarbeau, and she has to carry wise is filled with gray-whiskreed jokes, gas and ministrel business and an over supply of herse-pity, which is largely uncalled for. e Records of the State Department Show-ing International Episodes—American Diplomats Who Made Themselves Amen-able to Rebuke—The Cases of Ministers Monroe, Morris, Wheeler and Corwin

number of internstional episodes i which our representatives abroad have by their action made to rebuke and in it necessary for the President to recall them. These occasions have been very and more easures the life of our republic and in most Nevins married James, Jr., on account of the of them no demands for the reprimand of our ministers have been made by the Governments to which they have been accredited. When Mr. Monroe, afterwards President of the United States, was minister to France in 1794 he was severely criticised by the Federalist party in this country on the ground that he was unduly conciliatory in his conduct towards the French Government. Mr. Monroe's course, however, was ably defended by his friends who called attention to the fact the his instructions which were drawn by Secregovernment of France. It was also wentered the time of his appointment that his at the time of his appointment that sympathies were with that movement. In addition the records of the department show that Secretary Pickering, who succeeded Mr. Randolph, left Mr. Monroe during the most critical period of the revolution entirely without instructions. It was therefore natural that Mr. Monroe should have fore natural that Mr. Monroe should have that he was this left to his which, together with the most critical period of the revolution entirely without instructions. It was therefore natural that Mr. Monroe should have felt that he was this left to his own judgment, which, together with his sympathies inclined him toward the belief that the French revolutionary movement tended not only to liberty but to safe government. Mr. Monroe was finally recalled, however, and Mr. Pinckney appointed as his successor. When Mr. Monroe and Mr. Pinckney appointed the newly appointed minister very cooly and a few days afterward Mr. Monroe received a formal notification that Mr. Pinckney would not be received until grievances then complained of by France were redressed and Mr. Monroe's position was made peculiarly embarrassing by the fact that this communication was coupled with a profusion of compliments to himself. At that time no stranger could remain in France without police permission, and not only did the Government refuse to recognize Mr. Pinckney as Minister, but he was informed a few days later that he could not remain in Paris without this permission and that should he remain he laid himself liable to arrest. He accordingly obtained his passports and left Paris for Holland. Diplomatic relations were not resumed for a considerable period. Government Morris, when Minister to France, in 1736, occasioned considerable embarrasement to the President of the United States by his course in rendering advice and support to the reactionary party. His action was made the subject of correspondence between this country and the French Government. Mr. Jefferson, then Secretary of State, in describing a conversation which he hrd with President was himster, to the president was made the subject of correspondence between this country and the French Government. Medary of Ohio, and the social standing of her and her family, has always been a welcome guest wherever she wanted to go. Again, as to marrying young Blaine for his money, there were others whom she could have had at any time, one in particular being a well-known Detroit man, who has an income of $10,000 a year. This gentleman, who, by the way, is the brother-in-law of a former Mayor of Detroit, was desperately in lov. with her, and when she was spending the summer at some resorts around Detroit, went to see her time and time after time on his own yacht.

The whole cause of the trouble is said to have been partly brought about by remarks Emmons Blaine made to his mother. He told her that certain financial difficulties, in which young Jim was involved, had been occasioned by the expense his wife had led him into. This was untrue, as he had lost money in speculations made by himself. Their home was a very ordinary one, being on the fifth floor of a house in which there was no elevator. The rooms were furnished in the plainest manner imaginable and there was no display or extravagance of any kind. Walker Blaine appears to have been one member of the family who did not dislike his sister-in-law. When they first methes said to her: "Well, Marle, I did have some hard feelings against you for marrying Jimmy, but now that have seen you, I must say that had I been in his place I would have done the same, and if I had met you first matters might have seen you first matters might have seen you first matters might have seen you first matters with his sister in-law. THE NICARAGUA INCIDENT.

The question of the position which the American representative should assume toward the political controversies of the country in which he was located were very clearly set forth by our State Department in certain comminications sent to Minister Wheeler, then located at Grenada, Nicaragua, during the time of the romantic episode of the Walker insurrection, which occurred in 1855. This insurrection, as will be remembered was of the nature of a fillibustering expedition of a higher order, and resulted in the establishment of a temporary government of Walker's own making. After the city of Nicaragua had been taken by the insurance of Nicaragua had THE NICARAGUA INCIDENT. been taken by the insurgents every effort was ment of a temporary government of Walker's own making. Atter the city of Nicaragua had been taken by the insurgents every effort was made for the establishment of peace, and the Presidency of the New Republic was offered to Walker. This he declined in favor of Gen. Corral, a native officer. A committee of citizens, joined by some priests and the late Minister of War and Minister of Foreign Relations under the government just deposed; called upon the American Minister, Col. Wheeler, and requested that he would proceed to the town of Rivas, where Gen. Carroll resided, with propositions of peace. Col. Wheeler declined, as he did not wish to compromise his government in any shape. It was urged by the committee, however, that no doubt existed in the minds of any that peace would be affected, and further that such interference was not unusual in the diplomatic history of all countries, civilized or savage. Col. Wheeler was finally prevailed upon to acceede to the request and left the city at midnight, accompanied by the Minister of War, who gave his parol of honor to return with him. They reached Rivas about noon on a certain day and found the piace strongly fortified by the forces of Corral but himself was absent. After remaining a few hours and hearing nothing from the absent official he ordered his horses with the intention of returning, when he was informed that he must remain and soldiers with arms were placed at his coor. He remonstrated against such conduct as a great violation of his rights and a deliberate and wanton insult to the American Government. He was thus kept for two days when his friends in the town of Virgin Bay, becoming apprehensive for his safety and life, dispatched a courier to ascertain the facts. The steamer Virgin was also dispatched to St. George, the nearest point to Rivas by water, under command of Capt. Scott fired four cannon heavily shotted. This slarmed the Governor and the local officials, and they sent word to Col. Wheeler to know what the demonstration meant. Wheeler replied that in 1878 or 1879, and stayed here until 1882.

When he struck St. Louis he was "game" for the newsboys and many a hard fight did he have with them before he was allowed to enter the exclusive circle of the leading paper venders and shee polishers in this city. He first took up his quarters at the Newsboys' Home, which was then in existence.

HIS PECULIAR ACCENT and his prisk active movementsoon made him a favorite. His name, like all newsboy names, was chosen with a view to describing him. The fact that he came from New York fixed the "Yorkey" end of the name, and "Pete" seemed to be the proper finish for the "Yorkey," and so he went from that time under the name of "Yorkey Pete." He was very ambitious and had a good opinion of his own abilities. He wasted very little time in getting aquainted and working up a good busit ness in the boot-blacking profession. Very soon he became a familiar sight about the Merchants' Exchange and the newspaper offices. He was somewhat of a monopolist and on every occasion when he discovered that a time other how was trying to "sching". that some other boy was trying to "sbine" his customers either the boy licked Pete or Pete licked the boy. His self assertion and decision soon made him a leader among bis associates. When the POST-DISFATCH raised the price of papers to the newsboys from 2½ cents to 8 Pete was very indignant. The alley back of the Laclede Hotel was chosen for a grand indignation meeting. There the boys gathered and "Pete" made the address. It was very savage and advocated bloodshed and arson, and called down the wrath of all the boys upon the heads of the newspaper managers. A procession was to join her there, and together they would go to New York. Mrs. Nevins was to remain till morning so as to throw off suspicion, but this plan was thwarted by friends of the family. Mrs. Bisine went to Portland and Mrs. Nevins stopped in Augusta all night, leaving on the early train in the morning. But the young man did not appear, and the little woman her Portland waited patiently for him, and finally in sorrow and sadness, realized that he would never come and that he had been waylaid and captured before he could escape. It is accepted as truth here that his trunk, which had been hastily and secretely packed, went as far as Hallowell, two miles below the city, where it was taken from the baggage-car by Mrs. Coppinger's order.

He armed himself with a book and pencil, synthesis and what the newboys term his 'face. 'Then he made a canvass. In two days he had been through the Merchants' Exchange and nearly all the big down-town offices and.

He said there was talent in the family, and as a proof claimed that Genevieve Ward, the actress, was his sister. This, of course, was one of Yorkey's yarus. He gave the stage idea up after a time and in 1832 went West. He knocked around the Western country shining shoes from Kansas City to San Francisco. At odd times he was seen in theaters and hotels, but aiways got back to boot blacking. Some time ago it was reported that "Yorkey Pete" HAD REEN SHOT while robbing a coach in California with a well-known gang of stage robbers. This story was generally credited and some of his friends say he served three years at the San Quentin Penitentiary for the offense. His first appearance in St. Louis since he left in 1832 was early last week, when he dropped in as a trapeze performer. He went about town and renewed many of his old sequalntances. He denied the robbery story and said he was doing well in his business. One of his friends asked him why he did not do his act over a net, instead of over the seats, as he did. He said the performance did not take as well with a net, and that the more chances he took the better it paid.

Extreme Delicacy of Mr. Cleveland's Position in the Affair.

By Telegraph to the POST-DISPATCH

NEW YORK, October 29.—The WORLD's Washington (D. C.) special says: The reports in he New York papers in regard to an inter-riew which Representative Collins and Editor O'Rellly had with the President yesterday very one is prepared for any developmen ch may possibly occur in the Sackville ffair. At 4 o'clock the President drove out to Oakview, accompanied by the ladies, of the White House. This evening your correspondent, anxious to obtain an of Mr. Cleveland's views blunder of Lord Sackville, Her ritanic Majesty's Minister, drove out to the ent's country seat. The correspondent's ring was answered by a maid, who showed the visitor into a tastefully furnished rridor and the President entered. He he interview spoke very freely.

"Well, sir," said the President when he had seated himself, "what has brought you to

I explained that great curlosity was felt by ville imbroglio, particularly as to what had Boyle O'Reilly, editor of the Boston Pilot, in the interview reported to have taken place In New York yesterday. 1 also brought to the President's notice the statement that he had taken occasion to assure the gentlemen on their departure that if Lord Sackville was not scalled within three days he would be given is passports. It had also been reported, I this assurance that they immediately returned to Boston.

'ALL WRONG, ALL WRONG.'

The President daughed heartly and said:

'That statement I have read, and it is all wrong, all wrong. I did see Representative Collins and Mr. O'Reilly, at Secretary Whitney's house, when some little conversation was had, but it was almost all devoted to another subject. These gentlemen called upon me to discuss another matter, namely, the extradition treaty, which was postponed by the action of the recent session of the Senate. The letter of the English Minister was only briefly referred to. I brough the matter up myself and took occasion to assure them that they would have no fault to find with what had been done and the future course to be pursued hey would have no fault to find with what had seen done and the future course to be pursued in the matter. I told Mr. Collins and Mr. O'Reilly that I thought the people hardly re-rarded me as a coward in these matters, and when the facts in the case should become known, the people would feel satisfied with the course of the State Department. Both centlemen appeared gratified and the subject was dropped.

was dropped."

"Can you say, Mr. President, what point of the extradition treaty was discussed?"

"It was represented to me by these gentlemen that it has been persistently asserted that the extradition treaty with Great Britain, which has been published, contemplated the surrender of persons charged with political offenses. I do not understand how it is possible to so distort language. Anybody reading the treaty would plainly see that it contemplated no such thing. The treaty, as at first drawn, provided for the extradition of persons charged with injury to property whereby the life of any person is endangered, whereby the life of any person is endangered, if a crime according to the general laws of both countries, and it was so amended as to make mailcious injury to property by the use of explosives also an extraditable offense."

"May I ask, Mr. President, ff any demand has been made on the British Government for the recail of Lord Sackville, and if not, whether you have received any assurance that his Government will order him to leave washington?"

whether you have received any assurance that his Government will order him to leave "ashington?"

The Fresident hesitated for a moment and then replied: "I cannot tell you at this time just exactly what has been done. This is a matter of the greatest delicacy; it concerns our relations with a foreign nation. We must do these things with all the dignity and in accordance with the amenities that must prevail between two great nations on friendly terms with each other. There can be no unseemly haste. I say the same to you that I fold Gen. Collins, the people must be patient and they must be assured everything has been done we consistently could do. I never yet have discussed matters of State with the outside public, nor can I do so now. This I also told Gen. Collins, and I am sure he understood my motives."

and I am sure he understood my motives."

THE PERSIDENT'S POSITION.

In speaking of the Sackville letter the President seemed to feel keenly the extreme delicacy of his own position in relation to the affair. On the one hand, he is confronted with the duty which he owes the people as their executive to maintain the dignity of the United States, and to properly resent the insult of the British Minister's letter. He realizes, on the other hand, that should he take prompt and vigorous measures he will be subject to the charge on the part of his positical enemies of using his high office for political advantage of the party to which he belongs. Though speaking with the utmost discretion and reliance on this point, he did not fail to make it clear that no consideration, either of person or party, would deter him from doing his fall duty as he conscientiously sees it.

Your correspondent asked the President if he thought the publication of the Sackville letter would be likely to have any effect on the result of the coming election. The reply was very gaarded:"

letter would be likely to have any effect on the result of the coming election. The reply was very guarded:"

"It is quite impossible," said he, "for me to judge accurately, but I have every confidence in the intelligence and good sense of the people, and I do not think they will be missed by an episode of this character."

The President here turned interviewer and asked your correspondent whether "Murchison's" identity had been fully established, saying he had not read the papers very carefully in this connection, and when informed that Murchison is the admitted nom de plume of the writer of the letter and there is a grave asspicion that Murchison and A. W. Bell, a Pomona (Cal.) lawyer, are one and the same person, the President smiled slightly and it was evident he also entertained the same opinion. Discussing this phase of the case the President intimated that the public at large would very readily see through this transparent subterfuge and thus, whatever would be entirely lost.

"Hi it be a fair question, Mr. President, what is your opinion of the propriety of the British Minister's writing such a letter?"

The President paused a moment before replying and said: "I do not think I care to articles the action of the Minister in this case. Our estimation of it is a matter which has been officially communicated by the State Department to the British Government."

"There is another question no less delicate very line. Compared to it the Morey letter was inaignificant."

"By the way," said the Fresident, laughingly, "I have received an intimation that another campaign trick is being prepared with the intention of springing it on the voters on the eve of election. While I do not give much credence to the rumor yet it would be as well to head it off in advance. I have been informed it is proposed I shalls receive a day or two before election a series of engrossed resolutions or some other acknowledgment of this sort, purporting to come from some English club of the Cobden order. This testimonial is to come in the nature of a compliment to the Administration for its course upon the tariff question."

The President appeared to keenly enjoy the ludicious teatures of this rumor, and he went on to say that unfortunately for the complete success of the enterprise the Sackville-Murchison correspondence would have the effect of rendering the public extremely suspicious of any further attempt to impose upon its creduity. Regaring his recent trip to New York to review the business men's parade the President appearance of such a large body of business men as passed in review on Saturday. The weather was such as would have excused any one for declining to turn out, and had it been less inciement the parade would doubtless have been even more imposing."

As the President sat in a half-reclining position in an easy chair, coolly discussing the issues of the campaign, in which his interests, personal and political, are so vital, the correspondent could not avoid being deeply impressed with his splendid nerve and almost entire absence of concern that have been such marked characteristics of the man throughout his political career. His discussion of the subjects touched upon in the interview was unimpassioned as though they related to the fortunes of an entire stranger. When your correspondent rose to take his leave, the President shook him warmin by the hand and said, as if by way of a parting admonition: "Let the people have a little patience; they will not find me a coward."

Naw York, October 29.—The World's Washington special says: The British Minister went to church twice to-day, forenoon and atternoon. He attended St. John's Episcopal, while his daughters went to St. Matthew's Boman Catholic, the churches which the father and daughters respectively attend. A correspondent this evening was admitted to an interview with the blinister and had an opportunity of drawing his attention to various published reports stating that he had been recalled, that he himself had saked to be recalled and that President Cleveland had said that unless the recall was made in three days he would be dismissed by this Government from this capital. The Minister glanced over the reports referred to and admitted thrt he had read them, but again begged to be excused from saying anything. He seemed, however, to regard the newspaper reports as eraggerated.

"The newspapers," said he, "will say everything about me, but I must not talk back. I cannot at the present time either confirm or contradict any reports the newspapers may print, but I will say to you that a large proportion of these newspaper reports surprises me very much."

When asked if he had any modification to make of the statement he made after his interview with Secretary Bayard, that what happened would make no difference in his relations with the Secretary, the Minister said: "No, I have no modifications to make; in fact I have not a word to say."

He is so persistent in the repetition of this formula about not having a word to say that there is hardly a not modification to make of the statement he head and to say that there is hardly a hould be is acting in obedience to a strict injunction from London. He can't conceal the fact that he chafes under the newspaper denunciations to which he is being subjected, and if left to his own discretion there is hardly any doubt he would defend himself.

Lord Sackville's Public Career, Lord Sackville, formerly Hon. Sir Lionel Sackville West, K. C. M. G., first entered the ate Earl of Aberdeen. He served in the For-this capital. In the case of foreign potentates, however, this rule is very strictly enforced. When Emperor William I. of Germany died we promptly forwarded new articles of cre dence to our Minister, secrediting him to the new German Emperor, and his communication with the German Government was suppended until he received the letters. This is international law."

the Court at which he resides thinks fit to send him away without waiting for a recall.

7. By a change in the diplomatic rank of the Minister.

"In this case," said the official, "he divests himself of his previous rank, and is newly accredited as Minister resident, in all these cases whenever the Minister is suspended from his functions and in whatever manner his mission is terminated, it is the law of civilized countries that he still remains entitled to all the privileges of his public character until his return to his own country."

AN IRISH REFUBLICAN'S VIEWS.

Representative Woodburn of Nevada, who speaks for whatever is Kepublican in the Irish citizenship of the United States, and who delivered the most pronounced anti-English speech of the session in the House of R-presentatives. When seen vesterday by the Post-Dispatch correspondent, was loath to express himself in regard to the political situation produced by the British Minister's California correspondence, occause, he said, he was going over to New York to speak on that subject to morrow night." He said, however, that the British Minister's letter was the best campaign document the Republicans ever had. "The Irish people, whether in America or in Ireland, want no advice from a British Minister. They want nothing to do with anything English. They know that whatever England wants is not for their good, and while they did not need the British Minister. They want nothing to do with anything English. They know that whatever England wants is not for their good, and while they did not need the British Minister advice to guide them in casting their vote at the next presidential election, they will probably understand a little better what their own interests are by learning from Lord Sackville what are the interests of Great Britain. But this English Minister's interference in our affairs is impertinent and unpardonable, and he ought to be sent home to his own occurry."

Ex.Representative Phil Thomson of Kentucky, the Secretary of the Democratic Congression

consequently all there is in it is that the British Minister has been entrapped and badly treated by some mythical person for campaign purposes."

"Will the letter have any considerable effect upon the voting?"

"I do not see how it can possibly have any effect upon the voting. The only sentiment the Minister seems to have expressed toward the Administration was this: That while President Cleveland would hold fast to the position he had taken on the subject of retailation towards Canada, yet at the same time he belieuzed that good will between the two governments would be preserved, and there would be no breach of the peace caused by it. I think myself that is a very worthy sentiment, and one that both sides can afford to strive for, to exact, as in my opinion President Cleveland does, a full recognition of the rights of American citizens both native and naturalized, at home and abroad, and at the same time to preserve peace with the friendly powers. I think a demand by his own government upon the British Minister for an explanation, which would probably necessitate his temporary leave from here in order to make it, would be a sufficient reprimand to prevent him hereafter from writing private political letters to people he does not know. The position taken in the matter by Mr. Bayard may render the position of Minister West so uncomfortable that he may ask for his own recall, being no longer of any service to his Government here, for with Secretary Bayard's public declaration staring him in the face he can no longer sustain past relations with the State Department."

WHAT WHEELER SAYS.

Representative Wheeler of Alabama, the cavality general of the Confederacy, is a fighter when fighting is to be done, but he is not at all pugnacious in regard to the British Minister episode. "I do not see," said he, "that there is anything wrong in Lord Sackville's letter. In the first place it was a private letter, but I do not lay much stress upon that, for I think that the Minister would have the right to say publicly as mu and settled in peace. That is a sentiment that any foreign minister at Washington might properly express concerning the relations of his own government to ours. It is diplomacy itself and the Minister might be expected to speak in that strain even if he did not believe what he was saying. Lord Sackville does not pretend to know anything about President Cleveland's intentions beyond what he learned from his public announcement. He distinctly says to his correspondent it is impossible to predict the course that President Cleveland may adopt in regard to the fisherles and other questions in disputs. The Democratic party is the government of this country at the present time and the Democratic President is its head. Why should the British Minister or any other foreign Minister at the present time not speak respectfully and in a friendily way of the administration? It is his duty. When a Minister comes here for the first time, will the Minister not tell you as a intention of the difference of the first time and calls upon the President for the first time and calls upon the President for the first time and calls upon the President for the strait me, will the Minister not tell you as a newspaper man what his impressions of Mr. (Cleveland are, and will his impressions not be very favorable? It is the Minister's duty that they should be so. He may form whatever opinion he chooses about Harrison, out of Cleveland he as a diplomatist can have nothing but a favorable opinion and good words."

An Amusing Incident.

WASHINGTON, D. C., October 29 .- The Post-DISPATCH correspondent is informed of a stirring letter incident which occurred at the legation rather occurred at the legation rather late Friday night. The Minister has a French butler who has been in His Lordship's service for many years, long enough to believe that he knew all the movements of the Minister. Saturday evening the Minister went out and was not expected to return until very late. Down in the basement the French steward keeps a curious collection of swords and pistols and dangers and dangerous weapons of great variety. It is his hobby. He had a friend visiting him, and as the Minister was away he did not restrict the friend in firing the various specimens of firearms at an improvised target in order to see how they worked. 'Est ees all right,' the Frenchman would say. 'Fire, firel The Menesterre ees down town. No one will hear.' And both fired until they were wearied. Ultimately, the time came for the friend to leave and the two came up the narrow back stairway from the basement with the intention of walking out through the office on the ground floor. It is the Minister's office, and they believed he was down town. They made a mistake, however. The Minister was seen at the farther end of the room in an attitude of fighting or of flight. The two young men did not wait to examine particularly, but finding to their surprise that the Minister was at home, they scampered down the back stairs again and the visitor was shown out through the garden in the rear. The threatening letters, report of firearms and the invasion of the room, all following sech other so closely, gave rather a shock to the Minister's generally steady nerves.

Record of Harrison Gray Otis. late Friday night. The Minister has s

terwards, through the political influence of Gen. Comley the Postmaster at Columbus, O., and the last Colonel of Hayes' regiment, obtained an appointment in the Government printing office. Public Printer A. M. Clapp, notorious here as a squeezer of Government cierks for Republican campaign purposes, appointed Otis foreman of the office. Though in every way a first-class workman, Otis did not succeed as a foreman. He possessed a frightful temper and kept the public printer in hot water continually. He assaulted several employes of the office and on several occasions knocked down men whose work had not pleased him. A laughable story is told of his assault upon a proof-reader named C. Y. Langtree. Otis had criticised his work severely, when Langtree, losing command of himself struck Otis in the face. Otis was a powerful man and he felled Langtree to the floor with a blow of his right fist and then apringing upon his prostrate body placed his foot on his neck. Langtree, who was thoroughly cowed, exclaimed piteously, "Ain't there a man in the office." He was promptly answered by a voice from the crowd of employes, who had gathered about: "You blank fool, there's a man got his foot on your neck now." Otis' temper finally made it necessary for Public Printer Clapp to reduce him to the rank of a proof-reader, in which capacity he served until 1870, when through Republican political influence he secured a transfer to the patent office. Otis was an active Grand Army man and was a prominent flagure at the encampment of that organization in St. Louis last year. A nephew of his, Charles W. Otis, was employed as proof-reader in the Govern ent printing office until the advent of the present Administration. When Blaine was nominated in 1884 young Otis fixed up a slate embracing a redistribution of the fat places in the printing office neder in the Govern ent printing office her modestly put himself down for t

"No," said Dr. Dudley, "Inspector Brokate obtained permission to go in order to have facts to lay before the United States Senatorial Committee when it comes here. It is desirable that it should have all the facts that can be furnished in order that it can have a thorough understanding of the subject. The idea is not that there is so much danger to St. Louis at present from the saie of beef from these slaughter-houses where danger to St. Louis at present from the sale of beef from these slaughter-houses where diseased cattle are killed, for the sale here amounts to very little. It is a danger, though, which is always imminent as iong as the sale goes on, and while an opportunity to lay all the facts in the case before the Senatorial Committee is open it is wise to take advantage of it. Mr. Brokate is anxious to have a law passed requiring a live inspection of all cattle in the State where they are offered for sale, and it seems to me that that would be a proper remedy and an effectual one."

Frank Hoevel of Sil's North Broadway and Theodore Baker of Sil's North Broadway renewed an old quarrel Saturday night. Baker drew a knife and stabbed Hoevel in the left breast just below the heart. Hoevel was taken to the City Dispensary, where his wound was examined and pronounced dangerous. He was sent to the City Hospital and is in a critical condition. About ninemonths ago Hoevel and Baker had a fight and Baker gouged Hoevel's syout. Since then they have been bitter enemies and last night reference to the old quarrel resulted in a fight which terminated as related. Both men are single and laborers.

DOINGS IN THE COURTS.

SUITS SETTLED AND OTHER MATTERS DIS-

Mrs. E. H. Parker was adjudged $1,000 damages, the amount sued for, by Judge Dillon this morning, a jury being waived. The defendant was the Guernsey Furniture Co., and the suit was brought in December last. According to the plaintiff's story, the company in June, 1887, undertook to pack her furniture for storage, Mr. Smith, the agent, suggesting that the furniture be benzined to kill the moths and assuring her that no danger attended the process. Accordingly some nine gallons of benzine were poured over four plush chairs and a sofa, after which, in obedience to instructions, the par-

Solding against the Bonner & Zollern Iron Co. for $375.83 on the first count, and $41.75 on second count. The action was by a stockholder against the defendant corporation for dividends alleged to have been earned and declared. After dealing at length with the question of the competency of certain evidence offered, the Judge says: "It is contended by the learned counsel for the defendant that when the ownership of shares in a corporation is in dispute a claimant cannot maintain a suit against the corporation for a dividend until the dispute is settled by law. The case of Hughes against Vermont Copper Mining Co., 72 New York, 107, is to some extent authority to that effect, but it does not go that far. If there was a bona fide difpute between two claimants for the stock, the corporation as a third party in interest might be justified in assuming the position of a disinterested stakeholder, and require the parties to litigate the matter between themselves before it would pay the dividend to either. But in this case it is the corporation itself which claims the dividends, and if the contention of defendant's counsel is correct, then the bare assertion of a claim by the defendant would defeat the plantiff's action, which of course could not be the law.

In the suit of Alex J. Mullen against Charle his morning given for plaintiff in the sum of com December 6, 1877, to date. This amount the from December 6, 1877, to date. This amount the plaintiff sued to recover on a judgment already obtained in the Circuit Court in December, 1877, and which was assigned to him. Judge Valliant held in a written opinion that "there are sufficient points of identity between the judgment sued on and that assigned to the plaintiff as shown by the evidence to make a prima facie case of identity, and that prima facie case is not only not weakened, but it is very greatly strengthened by the entire absence of proof on the other side."

Judge Valliant in sustaining the demurrer entered in the case of King against Brown says: "The mother is not the natural guardi-an of a miner if he have a father; and if it be material to show that the mother in this case is the natural guardian, the petition should state the facts that would constitute her such guardian. But a suit of this kind should be brought by a next friend and not by a natural guardian." The suit is for $5.000 damages, brought by John W. King by: Fannie King, natural guardian, against Nicholas Brown, it being alleged that a ferocious dog of the latter badly bit the plaintiff.

English Dismissed To-Day.

The charge of embezziement against William H. English was dismissed at prosecutor's costs in the Court of Criminal Correction today. English was Secretary of the St. Louis Steel Range Co. of 1813 Franklin and was accused of embezziing 5600 from them. John Uri Musick, President of the company, paid costs on the case Saturday and ordered the dismissal of the charge, He stated that he was absent from the city when the warrant was taken out by W. J. Andrews, Vice-Fresident of the concern. The amount embezzied was not as great as they supposed, and he dismissed the case on account of the wife and child of English, for whom he feit very sorry. English had not made good any of the money taken.

ICE CAVES IN MAINE.

A Visit to Wierd Caverns Where There is Iee the Whole Year Around.

From the Lewiston (Me.) Journal,

A party of Norway and Oxford ladies and gentlemen visited the ice caves of Greenwood Wednesday of this week. These natural curicosities are about a dozen in number, and are situated some three miles from the little village known as Greenwood City. It is a good road from Norway to within a quarter of a mile of the caves, and we enjoyed every part of the way.

The caverns are on land owned by Mr. Eben Wentworth, and the entrance to them is about The History of Tobacco.

the caves, and probably these rifts gave the name to the mount.

Table rock is the highest of a series of ledges or shelving rock that reach nearly to the foot of the mountain. The view from here is marnificent and is only excelled by that at the summit. While a few of the party were extended at full length upon it looking down from the rock into the great amphitheater below, they were startled by the exclamation of 5.5. Smith, who was seated in the 'pulpit,' a smail circular place in the ledge:

"Get off from there. You don't know where you are! You are way out over creation."

They drew back to investigate, and found that they had been hanging out some fifty or sixty feet in mid-air upon a shelf of rock only flye or six feet in thickness.

BE YOUR OWN GLAZIER.

"There are hundreds of little jobs that 'the man about the house' could do if he only went to work in the right way," said an "all-

"Plenty of people, chiefly mechanics who ave grown old in their trades and who "Flenty of people, chiefly mechanics who have grown old in their trades and who have not been able to keep up with the times, usually earn a living by going from house to house at this season of the year and in the spring, doing the many little odd jobs that are always needed. Mending old windows is one of the hardest jobs to be done. The putty comes off hard and very often the sash is split and badly damaged in the attempt of the tinkers to chisel off the old putty. Occasionally avery old sash is found, the putty on which has a large proportion of white lead mixed with the whiting. Such putty can hardly be removed with a chisel without chipping of large pieces of wood from the sash. When time can be taken it will materially help to cover the sash thickly with a paste made from three parts of fine, one part of potash and a sufficient quantity of soft water to mix well. If this is done and the sash laid aside for ten or twelve hours the putty can be removed without breaking the glass. That is the only safe way to do it. A thin paint made of this same mixture can be plastered on any of the grease-covered jobs, which every person who attempts any such repairing very frequently comes across. A liberal coating left on over night and an application of cold water from a hose under sixty pounds pressure will have a wonderful effect. from the earliest times, but we have no certain the knowledge that this was the case. If it was so the knowledge of the plant and its uses must have been carefully guarded by the Chinese, for it was not introduced into any other Oriental nation until after its discovery in America. When Columbus first landed on the Island of San Domingo, in the West Indies, he found to bacco in use among the natives there, who smoked it when made into small cylindrical rolls and wrapped in maize leaf. The Indians on the continent smoked it in a pipe, and among all the tribes, from Peru to upper Canada, the first discoverers found the plant to be in use, and to have been known to them from so early a period that the time of its first discovery was unknown. The smoking of to-bacco with the Indians partook largely of the nature of a religious rite. The seeds of the tobacco plant were first brought to Europe by Gonzalo Hernandez de Ovieno, who introduced it into Spain, where it was first cultivated as an ornamental plant, till a traveler who had noted its use among the American Indians called attention to its narcotic properties. The name is said to have been taken from Tabacco, a province of Yucatan, though others derive it from Tobago, an island in the Carribaan Sea, and yet others from Tobasco in the Gulf of Florida. The practice of smoking the dried leaf of the plant became general in Spain, and its manufacture into snuff followed soon after. It was introduced into Italy in 1660, and about the same time into France. The first to bring the seeds of the plant into the latter country was Jean Nicot, the French Ambassador to Portugal, in whose honor tobacco received its botanical name nicotiano, whence the name nicotine, applied to a poisonous extract from the plant. Tobacco is said to have been first introduced into England by Sir Walter Raieigh. From these beginnings the use of the weed spread over the entire Eastern continent. It did not become known in Asia until the seventeenth century, but was taken up by the Oriental nations MONEY. New York, October 29, il s. m.—The new week on the Stock Exchange opened with a dull market, although Reading was very active again and there was a fairly active trading in a few other stocks, among which Richmond & West Point and Union Pacific were most prominent. First prices, as compared with Saturday's closing figures, showed declines extending to be per cent, Reading showing most weakness. The declining tendency continued during the early trading and Reading retired by per cent further, but the losses in the rest of the list were for insignificant fractions only and the course of pifes was changed when most of the list were brought back to the level of the opening figures and some even small fractions above. Atchison was specially weak, Josing 14b per cent, but there was no special feature, and at li o'clock the market was dull but firm, generally at about opening prices.

Noon—Money is easy at 1½62 per cent. Bar silver, 94c. The stock market again became active after il o'clock, but the animation was accompanied by a renewal of the weakness snown at the opening, and although the losses sustained were in no case for more than small fractions and prices were again brought down to below the opening figures. Reading and Union Pacific were the leaders in both activity and weakness, but San Francisco preferred also displayed increased weakness and lost nearly a point. There was no change in the market beyond a cessation of the heavy trading, and at noon it was quiet, but heavy to weak, at about the lowest prices of the morning.

Five Men Executed. On Saturday evening, November 10, a grea ill be held at the Apollo Theater in memory the Anarchists executed at Chicago en No vember 11, 1887. Similar gatherings will be held in New York, Chicago, Milwaukee and other cities, and invitations have been sent to the different Anarchist organizations in this city by the Committee of Arrangements requesting their co-operation in a grand demonstration in honor of the Anarchists hanged at Chicago. The meeting promises to be the largest of the kind ever held in this city. An elaborate programme has been arranged, a play has been written for the occasion which will be performed by actors belonging to the societies, several choral societies will be present and a number of wellknown orators will address the assembly.
The play to be performed is entitled "Innocents Condemned to Death," and depicts the scenes at the Haymarket riot and the ensuing trial and condemnation of those accused of criminal participation in the troubles that arose on that occasion. The hall will be handsomely decorated, and every preparation has been made for the reception of a large audience. District Assembly No. 191 has already signified its intention of attending in force, and others who are not represented in the Committee of Arrangements have been invited. The money raised at the meeting will be donated to the families of the Anarchists executed at Chicago.

Not only will memorial gatherings be held in most if not all of the large cities of this country, but arrangements have been perfected for holding monster mass-meetings in London. On November 10, Lucie E. Parsons, widow of the executed Anarchist, will speak at Worman Hail, Stow street, London. On Sunday, November 11, there will be gatherings at Regent's Park, Victoris Park, Hyde Park and Grafton Hall. At all of these places Mrs. Parsons will speak, and will be assisted by a number of well-known English labor agitators.

the vessel. Saturday they chartered an ocean tug which dropped anchor near the steamer, and as the tide began to slacken, "Old Henry," the diver, descended to the deck of the Atlas and tried a bunch of keys upon the office safe without success. After twenty minutes he made a signal to the guide to hoist him up. Again he descended with a hammer and chisel, and in fifty minutes came up with the ship's mail, a case of watches and a box of gold. The Atlas is lying in a good position, but with the deck covered with three feet of mud. The diver will visit the wreck again this evening. The sunken vessel is a great obstruction to navigation, being in the route of all boats crossing the North River. Two red lanterns showing the masts.

NEW YORK, October 29.—Eugene Carter, the billiardist, who came here some weeks ago to arrange a match or series of matches with Eastern experts, was not in an amiable mood inclations of men who are now in the first rank of experts and was especially sore on Slosson. "It seems strange," said he, "while these men deny I am in the first class they will not make matches with me. I would not care so much if I could be accused of bluf-fing, but I cannot. I have not yet offered to make a match without putting up my money in support of my challenge. There is one thing I have made up my mind to and that is, that there are three men who do not want to play for money. I came here to take on any of them for $500 or $1,000 a side or more if they wanted it. When Slosson opened his place I it in his safe over night and agreed to meet at were both there, but instead of his leaving the money with the Clipper, as agreed, he took it back to his place of business and the match fell through. When Daly said he would like to play Schaefer I told him there was no use looking for Jake, he could play me, but he would not: Then Billy Sexton talked about $1,000. I told him I would play But he wouldn't play. Now, I am not a newspaper player, but I can play any of those men eushion carroms for as much money as they care to put up, and prove whether I can or cannot defeat them. I have telegraphed my entry to the Chicago tourney and will go on there Monday.

entry to the Chicago tourney and will go on there Monday.

"There is another thing that makes me believe they don't want any part of me and that is when I got up at Saratoga Slosson had me squeezed out. That, it seems, made Schaefer sore and he said he would not play. I had not seen Schaefer, so you can see that, while Jake was perfectly willing to have me in, the others were not. I can't imagine any other reason than biev believe I can beat them. Why, one night in Chicago I offered to put up $700 and play Slosson and he came out and asked why I did not post my money. Then I put up $250 in Parker's hands to play him for $1,000 a side and he came out in the papers and asked "who would hold Parker." He afterwards denied he said that, however, but Carey, the reporter who wrote it, said he did say so. But there is no use talking, for I have to go back to Chicago without a match."

New York, October 29.—The river front was crowded all day yesterday with sight seers anxious to get a glimpse of the masts of the steamship Atlas, sunk in the North River in collision with the ferry boat Central last Tuesday. Pittsburg Loses $10,000.

Manager Phillips of the Pittsburgs said Friday that since the Alleghenies passed from the old to the new management, some five years since, they had lost $40,000 in cold five years since, they had lost $40,000 in cold cash. He added that the losses during the senson just ended would amount to nearly $8,000. The club went East on the closing trip $3,000 to the good, but owing to bad weather the guarantee was about the best thing tney received. The difference between the salary list and other expenses and the actual receipts amounted to $10,000 or over. This goes to show that base ball is not always profitable even in a town where cranks on the great game are thicker than files in August.

Six to Nothing.

The exhibition game yesterday man's Park drew out a nice crowd. The batteries were King and Dolan for St. Louis, and Keefe, Welch, George and Murphy for New York. St. Louis scored 6 runs, 8 hits and 0 errors, and New York 0 runs, 6 hits, and 7 errors. Devlin umpired.

The New Yorks have all gone home. Hope they'll stay there.

The players of both teams yesterday cleared about $50 each on the exhibition game.

Stovey, Bierbauer, Purcell, Fennelly and John Smith have signed with the Athletics. A. J. Reach says that while the Philadelphia Club would like to have Hanion of the De-troits, there is no truth in the report that an offer of $5,000 has been made for his release. Marr of the Syraouse Stars has a record of throwing out eighteen men at first base from right field this season on what were presum-ably base hits. This is a record hard to beat. The Brooklyn Club has this season succeeded in doing something that is rarely done. It has played out its full schedule of 140 games—not a postponed or tie game on its hands. Snow, hall or rain has never been allowed to stop a game, either at Washington Park or Ridgewood.

There are several high-salaried managers in the League. They say Jim Mutrie of New York and Harry Wright draw $5,000 a year, but many doubt Mutrie's salary. Spence draw $2,000, Philips $2,200, Leadley, $2,000 and Ted Sudivan about $1,600. But these are estimates only. Watkins was a ligh-salaried man, and drew $3,000.—[Pittsburg Chronicle.

drew $3,000.—[Pittsburg Chronicle.

There is nothing in the talk that John Ward may be signed to play at short and captain the Allies. Dunian suits elegantly as a captain, and if the deal for Rowe roes through, which it likely will, he will cover short all right. There would then be no room for Ward. If the Rowe deal falls through, it will then be time to talk about Ward.—[Pittsburg Dispatch.] time to task about Ward.—[Fittsburg Dispatch.

It is said that the Baltimores and Athletics are figuring upon a deal for an exchange of players. Kilroy is the man the Athletics want from Baltimore. Five thousand dollars is the price set for his release. From a reliable source it was learned that a proposition had been made for the Athletics to give Gleason, Mattimore, Townsend and a bonus of $1,000 for Kilroy.

It is by no means certain that the American Turf Congress will meet in New York on November 14. The Presidents of the Kentucky Association and of the Latonia Jockey Club object to going to New York unless the Eastern racing associations show a disposition to confer with the Western clubs. And what is true in this respect of Lexington and Latonia is true of Chicago, Louisville and St. Louis. The Congress will meet in New Orleans if it does not go to New York.

does not go to New York.

A decision of interest to bookmakers as well as speculators was rendered by the judges at Lexington. After the race won by Van Trim a man presented a ticket to a bookmaker marked "Van," calling for 15 to 1 win and to 1 a place. The bookmaker refused to pay it, saying the ticket was on Ireland instead of Van Trim, as was shown by his recording sheet. The owner of the ticket appealed to the judges, stating positively that he had bet on Van Trim, as his ticket showed, although the bookmaker's sheet might show otherwise. The judges, after consultation and hearing both sides, decided that the ticket was the best evidence in favor of the speculator, and the bookmaker was required to pay it at its face value.

GLOBE, 705 to 718 Franklin avenue. ROBBED IN AN ALLEY.

But the Police Are Not Inclined to Believ

His Story. Lizzie Prince, colored, was arrested by the police this morning on a charge of stealing a pracelet and ring from Henry Smith, a white about 17 years of age, living at No. 124 South Fourteenth street. Smith stated that about II:30 last night, as he was passing through an alley between Sixth and Seventh streets, Clark avenue and Spruce street, he was attacked by a crowd of negroes who were "shooting craps." They knocked him down and Lizzie Prince robbed him of the bracelet and ring. The jewelry, which is plated, belonged to his sister, he says. He procured a warrant for petit larceny against her. The woman says that Smith gave her the articles. As the young man bears no evidences of having been assaulted, the police are inclined to believe her story.

Smith stated that one of these is heavily taxed by the present about 11:30 last night, as he was passing customs system, without gaining any corresponding advantage. In no part of the world is machinery so generally used in agriculture as in California, where there is, and always has been, a scarcity of labor as com-pared with the acreage, and the great cost of agricultural implements necessitated by the present tariff is a heavy and burdensome tax upon the farmer. The same condition of affairs upon the farmer. The same condition of affairs in an even greater degree prevails among the mine owners, whose machinery is very elaborate and expensive, and thousands of votes will be cast for the Democratic electoral ticket by them. Not only California, but also Nevada will be found in the Democratic ranks, the citizens of the latter State being influenced not only by their adherence to the doctrines of the Mills bill, but also by the belief that the Democrats are much more favorable to the continuance and increase of the silver colnage than are the Republicans. Nevada depends for its existence upon its silver nines, and cannot afford to array itself on the side of those who may cut off the market for this metal. I look for both these States to be in the Democratic column when the results of next Tuesday week's electionare promulgated.

"Another interest, in which I am personally concerned, and whose influence and importance has been very generally overlooked," Mr. Lawton went on to say, "is that of the ship-owners, which will be east strongly in favor of the Democratic ticket. CHICAGO, Ill., October 29 .- Judge William J. McAllister of the Appellate Court, one of the most noted men on the bench of Illinois, died very suddenly at his home in Ravenswo very suddenly at his home in Ravenswood this morning. His death was sudden and quite unexpected, although he was 70 years of ago. He had been troubled for several months with rheumatism, which six weeks ago developed into heart trouble, and the immediate cause of death was heart failure. Judge Mo-Allister was born August 5, 1818, at Salem, Washington Co., Mo., and moved to Illinois many years ago. He was elected to the Supreme bench of the State in 1870, and held that position until 1875, when he resigned to accept an election to the Circuit bench of Cook County.
